

Personality Assessment Report

Name: David Lee

Date: 2026-04-01 10:45:00

ENFP

Your Personality Type

Extraversion vs Introversion

100% Extraversion — 0% Introversion

Strong Extraversion

You are strongly extraverted. You thrive in social environments and feel energized by interacting with others. You are likely outgoing, talkative, and enthusiastic in group settings. You prefer to think out loud and enjoy being at the center of activity. You may find prolonged solitude draining and seek out social stimulation naturally.

Sensing vs Intuition

6% Sensing — 94% Intuition

Strong Intuition

You are strongly oriented toward intuition. You are drawn to abstract ideas, theories, and future possibilities. You see patterns and connections that others might overlook and enjoy exploring innovative concepts. You may find routine, detail-heavy tasks tedious and prefer to focus on the big picture and what could be rather than what is.

Thinking vs Feeling

3% Thinking — 97% Feeling

Strong Feeling

You are strongly oriented toward feeling. Your decisions are deeply guided by personal values, empathy, and concern for others' well-being. You are highly attuned to the emotional atmosphere around you and prioritize maintaining harmony and positive relationships. You may find purely impersonal, logical decisions difficult, as you naturally consider the human impact of every choice.

Judging vs Perceiving

11% Judging — 89% Perceiving

Strong Perceiving

You are strongly oriented toward perceiving. You thrive on spontaneity, flexibility, and keeping your options open. You are curious, adaptable, and enjoy exploring new possibilities. You may resist rigid schedules and deadlines, preferring to go with the flow. You are energized by new experiences and may start many projects, enjoying the process of exploration more than reaching a final conclusion.

